ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Joelyn N. Pagaduan

February 02, 2026

Artificial Intelligence, or AI, is a very powerful tool in our world today. At first, I thought AI was only for robots or complex computers. But now, I realize that we use AI every day, like when we search on the internet or use our mobile phones.

In education, AI can be a great assistant for both teachers and students. It can help us find information quickly, check our grammar, and give us new ideas for our projects. However, I learned that we should not let AI do all our work. If we just copy and paste from AI, we will not learn how to think for ourselves.

As a future educator, I believe that the “human touch” is still the most important part of learning. AI can provide the data, but humans provide the feelings, creativity, and real understanding. We should use AI to make our work better, but we must always be the ones in control. AI is the digital pen, but we are still the ones writing the story.